Help with course content, homework assignments: Use the tutoring room and instructor’s office hours. You may also contact your own TA or instructor by email, but you may have to wait a day or more for a response. You can also use the discussion forum on the course Moodle.

Problems with WebAssign: Email one of the head TAs.

Request for excused absence: Email one of the head TAs.

Request for conflict exam: Email one of the head TAs.

Questions about course policies, exam times and locations: Read the information on the course Moodle.

Request for correction of grading error: If it’s a worksheet - contact your discussion section TA. For midterm exams - contact the head TA.

If you miss class and need to learn the material you missed: It is your responsibility to catch up, using the textbook. After you have studied the textbook, bring your questions to the tutoring room or office hours. There are also many free online resources for calculus.
Any problems with TAs, head TAs, tutoring room, discussion section: Contact the instructor promptly.

Anything else: Contact one of us and we’ll help you find the answer to your question. You can also use the discussion forum on the course Moodle.
